Axis to be Bombed to Destruction

By Axis Officials Commando's Landing on Lampedusa Island Is Claimed Repulsed Invasion Expert

LONDON, June 8.—(CP)—A commando landing broadcast from Rome and Berlin claimed today that the first Allied landing attempt on one of Italy's outlying islands, the desolate prison island of Lampedusa, was repulsed last night.

"A military and naval quarters in the Axis reports, and the Axis is still expected to recognize that Lampedusa would not be an obstacle in a full-blown invasion attempt when a German-contrived broadcast from Vichy said 'A British and American offensive against Italy may be expected at any moment.'

D.N.B. German News Agency said in a broadcast, however, that the attempt on Lampedusa was a "serious effort" to take the island by five companies of British Commando superbly trained and equipped.

1,500 POPULATION
Lampedusa, 10 miles east of Sicily, has a population of about 1,500. It is a full-blown invasion attempt when one-fifth are convicted. It is a spot of desert, jutting up from the Mediterranean and the most southerly of Italy's outlying defense positions. Although it once figured as a potential Italian base, it has not been a recent objective of Axis forces.

The Italian commando today asserted, however, that it was under heavy attack just prior to the landing attempt.

"The enemy attempted a landing on the island of Lampedusa," the Rome bulletin said. "The attempt was carried out by British units in a commando fashion. The defenses which sank several enemy naval vessels."

GERMAN CLAIM
Claiming the attempt failed "100 per cent," the German radio added: "If the Allies by this attempt intend to test the resistance of Italian troops when they are defending their home islands, the Italians have stood the test in a brilliant manner."

The German broadcast said Berlin military quarters had "no doubt" that it was "a serious landing attempt."

Non-essential conventions and gatherings are still being held, seriously interfering with the movement of the armed services, he said.

"I must therefore think that unless the public refrain from using the passenger trains except when absolutely necessary, the situation may well develop where more drastic steps will have to be taken to prevent non-essential traveling," he said.

Coal Tar Banned
For Highway Use
OTTAWA, June 8.—(CP)—To provide sufficient coal tar for vital war industries, its use for fuel, or for the construction, maintenance, or repair of public or private roads, highways, or airport runways, has been prohibited, the munitions department announced today.

The new order, issued by Chemicals Controller E. T. Sterne, also provides that, except by permit, no person shall dispose of any coal tar, or use coal tar in quantities greater than 40 gallons a month. The order does not apply to coal tar produced in British Columbia.

Mr. Sterne said coal tar is a critical supply. It is used for making the pitch necessary in refining steel alloys and aluminum, and also essential for making the pitch-coated needed in the manufacture of aircraft.

ALGIER, June 8.—A quadrumvirate composed of Gen. Henri Honoré Giraud, Gen. Charles de Gaulle, Gen. Alphonse Joseph Juin, and Jean Monnet was expected today to form the nucleus of a new French government.

The impression prevailed generally that Giraud would concentrate on military affairs and De Gaulle on political affairs in the French National Committee of Liberation.

The "war cabinet" within the committee would have a predominance of Giraud, but the four prospective candidates draw the same ammunition last night.

Monnet was in line because his portfolio is that of arms and supplies.

Gen. Georges Catroux still held a key position in the government and was expected to be a member of the new cabinet. He was expected to be a member of the new cabinet.

A SECOND EDITION of the Edmonton Bulletin's Alaska Highway and Air Progress Souvenir Edition will be published SATURDAY, JULY 3

The Edmonton Bulletin, during Saturday afternoon and all day Monday, was swamped with telephone, telegraph, and personal calls for many thousands of copies of its Alaska Highway and Air Progress Souvenir Edition. These calls continued unabated and in increasing volume long after the big edition had been sold out.

Edmontonians, and American and Canadian readers everywhere, are anxious to get copies of all parts of the United States and Canada, some to Australia and others to New Zealand.

To meet the unprecedented demand, The Edmonton Bulletin, in a special service, will issue a second edition of the popular Alaska Highway and Air Progress Souvenir Edition on Saturday, July 3, containing all the original and exclusive feature articles and news pictures with added articles and more exclusive pictures.

Advertising space will be limited in this edition.

From far and wide, from north, south, east and west, have come many letters testifying to the excellence of theme and reading content, the exclusive pictures and the originality of makeup in the edition.

The Bulletin is pleased to present a few of these tributes:

Premier Ernest Manning: The value of the Alaska Highway Edition of the Edmonton Bulletin as a publicity for Alberta may be considered under several divisions: as a source of information, as a source of inspiration, and as a source of knowledge. It is a source of information, a source of inspiration, and a source of knowledge. It is a source of information, a source of inspiration, and a source of knowledge.

House Passes $1,129,000,000 Air Estimates

OTTAWA, June 8.—(CP)—House of Commons last night gave approval to the $1,129,000,000 air department estimate for the fiscal year 1943-44.

The estimate is part of the total war appropriation of $3,800,000,000 for the fiscal year.

The House then turned to examination of navy department estimates, with Navy Minister Macdonald answering questions.

Prime Minister said the estimated cost of recruiting for 1943-44 was $1,250,000,000 against $750,000,000 in 1942-43.

MUST SECURE RECRUITS
G. H. Boucher (Prog. Con. Crl.) asked the reason for the increase in the cost of recruiting but now it was necessary to look for recruits.

Recruiting methods would include newspaper advertisements, radio programs, and other methods which would stimulate interest.

LT-Col. J. A. Rose (Prog. Con.) said he believed more men might be obtained for the air force from men called for compulsory military training.

Major Power said "not so many."

400 Prisoners Churchill Journeys to States On Ship Loaded With Nazis

AN EASTERN CANADIAN PORT, June 8.—(CP)—If German communiques announced a month ago that German troops had surrounded Prime Minister Churchill, Field Marshal Sir Archibald Wavell and about 20 other high ranking British officials, for one they would have been close to the truth.

Churchill's ship, carrying him to the United States to attend the Washington conference with President Roosevelt, also had on board nearly 400 German prisoners of war—some of them high ranking officers—captured by Allied forces during fighting in North Africa.

News of the fact Churchill had traveled in the same ship with German prisoners was withheld by censorship until today.

Parley Approves Legion Seeks Hold Resources To Assist Vets

Plan to conserve Canada's natural resources, remove the threat of desertification on the western plains and assist in the great task of rehabilitating veterans of the present war, was outlined to the convention of the Provincial Council of the Canadian Legion, B.E.S.L., at the Tuesday morning session, by R. D. Thomas, conservation member of the rehabilitation committee.

"Millions of trees need to be planted, streams stocked with fish, and the dried-out valleys and plains of the west restored to former fertility by scientific methods," Mr. Thomas told the delegates.

Modern war places a terrific strain on the buildings. There is already talk of building more mental homes to care for those whose minds suffer in the struggle.

"What finer training for these veterans than work in the great outdoors, restoring the natural resources of our country?" speaker asked.

"We of the Legion can perform no greater service for our veterans than by participating in the conservation of our resources and the rehabilitation of our comrades," declared Mr. Thomas.

RECOMMENDATION
The speaker said he was recommending to the convention that a provincial committee of the Legion be set up in each province to make a survey of what requires to be done in this province, and had been done in Ontario last June. Immediately.

Wildly-Cheering House Hears Prime Minister Pledge Blows at Axis

By HARRISON SALSBURY
Exclusive to The Edmonton Bulletin
Copyright, 1943, by British United Press

LONDON, June 8.—Prime Minister Churchill, in one of the most supremely confident speeches of his career, told a wildly-cheering Commons today that the Allies are determined to bomb the Axis to destruction and are preparing to launch "amphibious operations of peculiar complexity and hazard on a large scale."

Hardly had Churchill concluded his 37-minute speech than the House roared in approval. Churchill's speech was a masterpiece of timing and delivery. He told the House that the Allies are determined to bomb the Axis to destruction and are preparing to launch "amphibious operations of peculiar complexity and hazard on a large scale."

Subsequently a German communique reported that some Allied troops had landed, but asserted that the Italian garrison "annihilated" them.

Blasts Any Axis Hopes for Peace
The Prime Minister asserted that the "mellow light of victory" already had begun to play on the Allies and blasted any hopes that either Italy or Germany might have of negotiating a peace with a sarcastic reference to "those guilty of trumpeting the glories of war at the beginning."

He cryptically referred to operations "now impending" in the European theatre as being co-ordinated with those from North Africa, thus pointing out the possibility that the Axis will face attacks on its European theatre from the north and west as well as from the south.

The plans completed during last week's conferences in North Africa between himself, U.S. Chief of Staff Gen. George C. Marshall, British Chief of Staff Gen. Sir Alan Brooke and other top Allied commanders call for the application upon the enemy of "force in its most intense and violent form," Churchill said.

He said he could give no guarantee "any more than I have in the past as to what will happen" in the impending operations, but he described Allied prospects as "bright and solid."

Here Are Highlights of Speech

- Highlights of his 4,000-word speech included:
- 1—Britain, her dominions, the United States and Russia are determined that "nothing will turn us from our endeavor and intention to accomplish the complete destruction of our foe by bombing from the air in addition to all other means."
 - 2—The air war will grow in weight and severity.
 - 3—Complete agreement has been reached by the United States and Britain on the "forward steps" to be taken.
 - 4—May was the best month in the Battle of the Atlantic since the United States entered the war with U-boat destruction exceeding U-boat construction and Allied shipping losses dropping to less than one for every three tons built.
 - 5—The first week of June, so far as U-boats are concerned, has been the best ever.
 - 6—When Germany looks hope of victory through her submarines, the Reich may suddenly collapse, but "do not let us build on such delusions."
 - 7—The Axis lost 316,000 troops captured and 50,000 aircraft.

The Inquiring Reporter

THE QUESTION Considering the number of motor vehicles in operation throughout the Dominion this year, do you think Canadians as a whole can appreciate the serious position of the gasoline situation?

THE ANSWERS R. H. HARRIS, North West Airlines: If the government didn't want people to run their cars it should put a stop to it altogether, except in cases of absolute necessity. I think, however, people on the whole are trying to co-operate.

CHRIS. McDONELL, accountant: I think cars are necessary, rather than a luxury, in a great many cases. On the other hand there is a lot of unnecessary driving. It is hard to get away from the "freedom and liberty" ideas were always known.

E. A. ISAAC, commission broker: I don't think so. I am not against pleasure cars, but I do take objection to unnecessary trips, such as young people joy riding in autos at night.

WASHINGTON, June 8.—(AP)—The Navy department is planning a $2,500,000 ship construction program involving 400,000 tons of vessels ranging in size from small boats to aircraft carriers and heavy cruisers, Congress learned yesterday.

Disclosure of plans for this new program came in testimony by Rear Admiral E. L. Coghlan, chief of the Bureau of Ships, made public Monday by the Senate appropriations committee.

Men in Uniform Are Released to Fight by Patriotic Wrens, CWAC, Airwomen •

Women of the Canadian Services Enjoy Life of Training, Travel, Adventure

Smart, powder blue, double-breasted uniforms are the Wren's summer dress with white shoes and stockings, cool white shirt, navy blue hat and purse, black tie.

Respirator drill is exciting to the Canadian Women's Army Corps ordnance group. All the services undergo similar training in preparation for vital war work.

The girls come from all over the country and are frequently moved to different training depots for special courses. It's — life of travel and adventure.

AW2 Audrey Rose and AW2 Hazel Molson leave the mess at Rockcliffe. Every camp has such a centre and also recreational facilities and up-to-date tuck shops.

Airwomen keep track of flying hours at many R.C.A.F. stations. CWAC's are trained in secret signal work (centre). Wren officer and airwoman (right) mark sub sinkings on large scale map of North Atlantic.

The women's services have a place for every kind of training and experience. A Wren cook tests the day's meals, tastily prepared in modern kitchens.

At most service posts there are Saturday night and mid-week dances to which service men and civilians may be invited free of charge. The girls see their escorts to the door (top photo) and make dates for next week. When girls feel unwell (lower photo) there is modern hospital care with tempting meals in bed.

Life on an air force station is full of excitement, planes coming and going all day, airmen going up for their first solos, maintaining giant sky birds.

BETH CARTER, WAAC

BY LORETTE COOPER

When Beth regained consciousness, she was back in the hospital.

"Can't I stay out of here?" she complained.

"Not as long as your commanding officer is foolish enough not to look you up during an air raid," Beth Jackson said.

Beth felt her head. There was a big bandage on it.

"I'm not hurt," she said.

"You're lucky you weren't killed. When I spoke to you during the battle I should have..."

"Spoken to you and sent you back to safety."

"Just try spanking me," Beth replied.

"No, thanks—not after seeing what a hellcat of a fighting woman you are." They both laughed.

"Did we come out all right?"

"Not a one got away," Beth said. "One hundred per cent for our side. I didn't expect to do as well as that. There are damned good gunners and balloon men Uncle Sam has working for him out there."

"Tell me about it."

"You saw it all. I don't know what there is to it except that the din of the bombing was nothing compared to the noise of the chattering when the fellows in the pits and the foxholes realized those last two had been bagged."

"I thought they'd go crazy."

"Did we lose many... men?"

"Very few, considering. You're a casualty, though."

"I'm still alive, at least," she said, turning her head. "Some of the others..."

"Aren't so fortunate." The note of cheer was out of his voice now, and he was facing the soldier's sober realization that the battle, however victorious its ending, had left its mark. "Since I have to count my dead, I'm glad there aren't many to count."

"What's next?" Beth wondered. "The men are binding up their..."

"Hold everything."

"Watch your battleship."

Something else I want to say. Do you remember all the things I told you when we were up in the air? I-Beth-I love you."

All the waitresses in her faded away, but she closed her eyes and sighed. Gently, Beth Jackson kissed her.

THE END

McCoy Health Service

A great deal of good will come to you when you learn to use words of health, or words of strength.

When speaking you use words to convey a thought to another, yet at the same time the words themselves have a most profound effect upon you. Words will build up an inner condition which will have enough power to make you or break you.

In using words to carry on a conversation you are availing yourself of the first effect of words, which is their effect on another person; however, the words make a second effect, and this is upon yourself. Of the two effects, the second is of the greatest importance.

You will be that kind of person which your prevailing set of words make you.

Words have this special power to affect you by exerting a strong influence over the unconscious mind through suggestion. While you are thinking you hold a one-sided conversation with yourself, and during this time you are talking to the unconscious and giving it certain suggestions. The unconscious will be ruled to a very large extent by the kind of prevailing conversation in which you indulge.

When you are talking to others, talking to yourself, while you are thinking you are saying something to yourself, that is certain impressions are being recorded in the unconscious and the unconscious will take these impressions and act upon them along the line suggested.

Sometimes, perhaps, the things you say to yourself on the inside may be the direct opposite of what you feel free to say to others, and in such cases, you will be influenced more by the inner conversation than by that conversation spoken aloud.

One of the greatest laws of the human behaviour is the law of the unconscious tendency to act upon suggestions given it and exhibiting those suggestions in outward actions. It also seems as though the unconscious tends to bring about the physical changes which express the suggestions it receives. For example, when you say repeatedly, "I am so tired, am so weak," then the unconscious will express these states physically in tiredness and weakness.

The outer expression will fit the inner words. You can not talk disease to your unconscious and expect health. You can not talk weakness to your unconscious and expect strength. On the other hand, when you continually talk to the unconscious phase of the mind about strength, it will do the best to express that strength for you.

All the powers of your organism will bind themselves together into this strong cord of strength.

Keep watch on the words you say over and over. Nothing is more important than this. Use words which will help you to build up the condition you desire.

All questions regarding health and diet will be answered. Large, stamped, self-addressed envelope must be enclosed. Write on one side of paper only. Letters must not exceed 100 words. Address: McCoy Health Service, The McCoy Building, 1151 West 9th Street, Los Angeles, Calif.

near to Moscow than to half a dozen Latin-American capitals. On the basis of nearness (which is what neighbor means), why not a good neighbor policy for Russia? We should of course be good friends with Latin America, but not for the commonly accepted false reason of nearness.

The average Middle Westerner feels that he is farther from the war than his brothers on the east or west coast. Is he? Not if his brothers of very long range can be built.

If three bombers were to take off from Nash-Held North Cape in Norway they would arrive over Washington, D.C., Des Moines, Iowa, and Seattle, Washington, at about the same moment. The shipyard at Bremerton on Puget Sound is about the same distance from Moscow as the training station at Wilmington, North Carolina.

The airport in Japan nearest to us is on Shumshir Island. Two bombers setting out from Shumshir at the same time would reach the naval base in San Diego, California, and the wheat elevators in North Dakota or Manitoba at approximately the same instant.

Before this war we heard a lot of oratory in the Congress about defending "our hemisphere." We built a huge fortress at Pearl Harbor in Hawaii and began building defenses on Bermuda, Trinidad, Antigua, and other islands. Then we began the construction of a two-mile canal and considered that we had taken care of the matter. A glance at the new map however shows that the Kodak, Alaska, the Alaskan Peninsula, and the Aleutian Islands lie between us and Japan. Hawaii lies two thousand miles out of the way, off to one side.

If one of the long-range airplanes followed a direct route from Seattle to the Panama Canal it would cross southern Alaska and pass near Seattle, Denver, and Galveston! On the Atlantic side it is the Nova Scotia, Newfoundland, Greenland, Iceland, and Scotland which lie between us and the Germans—not Bermuda, Trinidad, or Antigua. Despite these facts we were a long time selling control of Greenland and pulling troops in Iceland and the British Isles. Moreover, many Americans raised a hullabaloo when we did put troops in Iceland—they felt it was off to one side.

On the Pacific side we built an enormous fortress at Pearl Harbor, but put only a few guns at Dutch Harbor, and none at all on Kodiak, Alaska, and Ketchikan, Alaska. These are the places however which lie between us and Japan—and the Japanese knew it, even if we didn't.

Edmonton Airman Missing Trying To Locate Comrade Shot Down

Bied For Friend

Squadron Leader Donald George E. Ball, son of Maj. G. W. Ball, now overseas, and Mrs. G. W. Ball, 1922 1st street, Edmonton, reported missing, believed killed, has been honored by his commander, officer commanding the Royal Air Force station where he was shot down.

Reporting to his mother, his commanding officer said: "On the 14th of April, your son's Squadron was ordered to carry out an offensive sweep over enemy-occupied territory. Your son returned to base to re-fuel and re-arm, and then led half the Squadron in an attempt to locate and rescue one of the downed comrades, who had been shot down into the sea. It was during this flight that your son was shot down."

The death of your son constitutes the loss of a first class pilot to the R.C.A.F. Everyone on the ground, and especially his mother, appreciates the unselfish sacrifice made by your son in the service of his country.

Squad Leader Donald George Ball, R.C.A.F., reported missing in a recent R.C.A.F. casualty list. It is believed to have been shot down while searching for a comrade.

Squad Leader Ball was a leader of a squadron of Spitfire fighters and was only 25 years old. He was erroneously reported missing in August 1941 when he emerged from a crash in the North Sea, after a mission in the Battle of Britain.

Squad Leader Ball was selected as one of the most capable and capable pilots in the R.C.A.F.

Speedy approval was given the resolution concerning the restriction of the manufacture and sale of beer.

Greek Relief Fund Serving Genuine Need

In the dark days of October, 1940, when Mussolini sent his proud Italian forces marching into Greece, the freedom loving peoples of the world watched with horror and grief the violation of a nation's rights. The general belief was that the small, peaceful country would calculate in a matter of weeks, but while the world watched in amazement the gallant Greeks struck back. Even though outnumbered in men, equipment and essential air power they drove the Italian invaders back.

When it looked as though the Greeks might succeed in pushing the Italians not only out of Greece but out of Albania as well, Hitler came to the aid of his partner. Herdies of mechanical tanks and waves of planes thundered into Greece, to shelter and bomb and war the country. The Greeks were defeated but not crushed, his soldiers were captured. The stand they made upon the Axis time table. It is impossible to calculate at this time just how much their effort succeeded in speeding the day.

The price the Greeks have to pay for their gallant deed is high. They know the vengeance of the enemy. They know starvation, disease and death. They know that their country has been stripped of food, and their belongings plundered. The occupation, loss of their lands have led from famine and misery.

HELP THE LIVING There is nothing you can do for the dead, but there is something you can do for the living. The Canadian Greek War Relief Fund has started a campaign to raise $500,000 for the Greek people.

The R.C.A.F. bought some gliders but they were not quite satisfactory. Six helicopters have been purchased but the date of delivery was uncertain. The R.C.A.F. has "quite a few" of them but they are not now being used for that purpose.

NEGOTIATIONS are proceeding between the army and the air force to increase the flow of men desiring air training from the army and also to arrange for enlistment into the army of men who have failed in the air crew training in the R.C.A.F.

Power Tells House Seek To Improve Conditions For Highly-Educated Men

Serving as Radio Mechanics

By JAMES MCCOOK OTTAWA, June 6.—(CP)—Air Minister Power yesterday transmitted to the House of Commons the word of Prime Minister Churchill that radio mechanics were largely responsible for the United Kingdom victory over the massed German air fleets in 1940.

When answering an inquiry about dissatisfaction among highly-educated men handling secret radio equipment. These men, who had been sent all over the world, felt their chances of promotion were not as good as those in other branches of the service. He reported the condition improved, the starting position granted, and trade pay provided. There was less dissatisfaction.

The minister said Mr. Churchill's statement was based upon a conversation in which the Prime Minister spoke of the need of more skilled mechanics in the air force. He said that the starting position for recruits for this branch was improved in Canada more than two years ago.

The House spent most of the afternoon in continued discussion of R.C.A.F. affairs under the $1,200,000 air department estimates for the fiscal year 1945-46, which are part of the total $3,800,000,000 appropriated.

ANSWER QUESTIONS Maj. Power and his parliamentary assistant, Hon. Cyril MacMillan (Lib., Queen's), answered a long series of questions about R.C.A.F. activities.

They revealed: The R.C.A.F. bought some gliders but they were not quite satisfactory. Six helicopters have been purchased but the date of delivery was uncertain. The R.C.A.F. has "quite a few" of them but they are not now being used for that purpose.

NEGOTIATIONS are proceeding between the army and the air force to increase the flow of men desiring air crew training from the army and also to arrange for enlistment into the army of men who have failed in the air crew training in the R.C.A.F.

TRANSPORT COSTS Air force transportation and freight charges in the past fiscal year were $1,000,000. The Canadian National Railways and $7,362,540 to the Canadian Pacific railways.

THE medical category for ground crew has been lowered to 100,000. This work still in progress. Of the 100,000, 70 per cent are under 27, and 6,800 have university degrees.
